

THE FIRST TRICKLE OF WATER can be seen emerging from the Starvation Feeder Conduit, an 84-inch diameter concrete pipeline that stretches three-quarters of a mile to the Knight Diversion Dam Complex. Behind this is a 100 second-feet flow of water.

SECONDS LATER the 100 second-foot stream of water crashes down the spillway completely covering the dragon-tooth baffles seen in the picture to the right. This water will help fill the Starvation Reservoir.
